

In the Roar of the Sea: A Tale of the Cornish Coast, Vol. 1 of 3 (Classic Reprint)

Sitting in the parsonage garden, in a white frock, with a pale green sash about her waist, leaning back against the red-brick wall, her glowing copper hair lit by the evening sun, was Judith Trevisa. She was tossing guelder-roses into the air; some dozens were strewn about her feet on the gravel, but one remained of the many she had plucked and thrown and caught, and thrown and caught again for a sunny afternoon hour. As each greenish-white ball of flowers went up into the air, it diffused a faint but pleasant fragrance. When I have done with you, my beauty, I have done altogether, said Judith. With what ? VOL.
